Danville:
FRIDAY: FEBRUARY 8, 1861.

UNION FLAG RAISING TO-MORROW!

The hoisting of the Union flag, under the auspices of the Working and Business Men's Union Association, will take place to-morrow afternoon, at 2 o'clock. A beautiful pole, more than one hundred feet high, has been erected on the corner of Main and Fourth streets, and the flag is a very large and handsome one. On the occasion of the hoisting, speeches will be made by J. T. Boyle, Esq., of this place, and T. P. Hill, Esq., of Stanford. Patriotic music may also be expected, and a National Salute by the "Anvil Artillery."

Everybody of course is invited to be present, and the ladies especially will be heartily welcomed.

Good Tobacco.

It seems to be generally conceded by all who have tested it, that Messrs. WELSH & METCALFE have a large lot of extra fine Chewing Tobacco. All lovers of the "nasty weed" should call and try it.

PETERSON'S MAGAZINE, for March has been received.

Mr. JAS. F. CALDWELL, had his examining trial for the killing of Mr. SCOTT HANKLEY, before Esquires Burton and Prewitt at Perryville, on Friday and Saturday, and was admitted to bail in the sum of $2,000, which he gave.

Caldwell Institute for Young Ladies.

The semi-annual Review of the classes in this Institution was held on Friday last, in the presence of a large number of the friends and patrons of the school. It was a perfect success, and all present were in the highest degree gratified by the proficiency of the numerous classes examined during the day in the studies of the past five months. In every department of the institution the review reflected honor and credit upon Mr. Sloan and his faculty of teachers, as well as upon the pupils who so successfully demonstrated their advancement in the various studies pursued by them during the session.

Caldwell Institute Dedication.

The interesting ceremonies of formally dedicating the Caldwell Female Institute, will take place on Friday next. The dedicatory address will be delivered by Rev. L. W. GREEN, D. D. The order of exercises is admirably arranged and measure to all who may attend.

Senator Johnson, of Tennessee, made another great speech in the U. S. Senate on Tuesday. It was even stronger in argument for the Union than his first, and was loudly applauded.

Three Cheers for Bouligny.

Mr. Bouligny, member of Congress from Louisiana, still occupies his seat in the House, the only one from that State who does. He proclaims his fidelity to the Union, and says the people of his district alone have the power to recall him.

The Legislature of Tennessee has refused to appropriate a dollar to be expended in arming the State. They very properly conclude that, as Tennessee does not intend to make war upon any body, and no body intends to make war upon her, it would be improper to tax the people for a military establishment.

The Washington Convention.

The Commissioners from a number of States assembled in Washington on Monday last, and were temporarily organized by the appointment of Hon. John C. Wright, of Ohio, as temporary chairman. All the States that have appointed delegates are represented, except New York, Tennessee, Missouri, and Illinois. Eleven States are fully represented.

The Hall was closed to all but the members of the Convention, not even the reporters for the press being admitted. The Virginia delegates are desirous that the whole proceedings shall be conducted with closed doors.

A motion to admit the Press was laid on the table.

A Committee on permanent organization was appointed, and the Convention then adjourned over to Tuesday afternoon, at which time John Tyler was chosen President. The proceedings being conducted with closed doors, no report of them can be obtained.

A correspondent of one of the city press, says of the delegates that their sentiments as expressed are conciliatory, and strong hope is entertained that the conference will result in the proposal of such a basis for compromise as will be acceptable to the Border States.

OLD VIRGINIA O. K.

The election in Virginia for delegates, to the State convention, was held on Monday last, and the indications from the returns thus far received, are that the Union men have achieved a splendid victory. It is believed that out of the 132 delegates, the secessionists have elected not more than one-third, and some accounts place the number at even less than that. Some of the Union candidates received majorities as high as one thousand votes. Old Virginia the Union States and Statesmen, is all right, and Kentucky her proud and patriotic daughter is with her in the glorious struggle to stand by and save the Union.

Letter from Hon. W. C. Anderson

WASHINGTON CITY,
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
JANUARY 29, 1861.

Sir: I have been informed that certain gentlemen in Kentucky are circulating reports, to the effect that I have voted to secede from the Union. Permit me to say through you, that no proposition of that sort has been brought before Congress, and no vote taken which indicates the intention so to do. I did vote for the following resolution, offered by Mr. Adrain, of New Jersey:—

"Resolved, That we fully approve of the bold and patriotic act of Major Anderson in withdrawing from Fort Moultrie to Fort Sumter, and of the determination of the President to maintain that fearless officer in his present position, and that we will support the President in all constitutional measures to enforce the Laws and preserve the Union."

This resolution was adopted by a vote of 124 to 54.

I regarded that resolution as a compliment to a worthy and gallant officer, and as an expression of a sentiment, mentioned in the very obligation we have taken as officers of the Government. Neither the President of the United States, nor Congress, nor any body else that I know of, proposed to secede from South Carolina, or any other seceding State. The object of all is to prevent bloodshed, and the particular object of the Federal authorities is to act in the defensive alone. No one is so rash as to desire civil war, and nobody proposes it, and I am confident, that no man can construe the resolution into the secession of South Carolina. Let it be remembered that there are two sides to this question of secession, to both of which the people of Kentucky are opposed. They do not wish to be involved in a war with a sister State, and neither do they intend to be coerced by South Carolina into a revolution. The attempt is being made to precipitate her, but thanks be to the Great Ruler of us all, Kentucky so far has acted nobly and gallantly. Her course indicates a desire to protect her own rights, and with them to maintain this glorious Union.

It is useless for me to repeat that I am for the Union. I have not yet seen any reason to abandon it. It is true that injustice has been done by the politicians of the country, but our remedy is in the Union and not out of it. I think now that I can see some ray of hope. Working men and people are speaking out, and the politicians must obey. This movement for a dissolution of this Government, is generally believed to be the work of a secret, organized association, which commenced its operations at Charleston to break up the Democratic party, and not to secede from the Union. But let us hope that reason and judgment and prudence and moderation will prevail, and this, the best country on earth be blessed with more than her usual peace and prosperity. If that is done I am content.

I am, very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
W. C. ANDERSON.

JNO. F. ZIMMERMAN & SON.

The following letter, which we find in the Frankfort Commonwealth of Saturday, needs no explanation:

SENATE, Jan. 28th, 1861.
MY DEAR COMRADES: I feel under many obligations to you for your many letters, and I beg that you will continue the correspondence notwithstanding my objections. What with business, consultations, and unavoidable company, I have in truth hardly time to write a line to the best friend, or even to draw a free breath. Your letters have a freshness about them that makes me feel and see the things you tell me. All things here are in gloom and darkness, yet I have every confidence that though my resolutions may not pass they will be the root out of which a settlement will grow.

The news from Frankfort is that you will not call a Convention. I am glad of it. There is no cause why we should. A motion of the Union at this time, and unless that is intended, I do not know what we want with a Convention. Preparations made often induce us to do things from which more consideration would have restrained us. Old Kentucky has too much dignity and history to be divided about by every changing tide in politics. Her movements in the present crisis ought to be well measured, well considered, and marked with steadfast manliness. We ought to see clearly what we are to gain by Disunion, before we abandon a Union in which we have enjoyed so much liberty, and so many rights. I write in haste and must conclude.

Your friend,
J. J. CRITTENDEN.

GEN. L. COMES.

The Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette telegraphs under date of the 3d inst, as follows:—"The latest advices from Fort Pickens state that many of the secessionist troops who had crowded in all from parts of Florida, Alabama, and Louisiana are leaving in disgust, finding that Lieut. Sumner is so strongly entrenched in his position. There is no immediate prospect of a fight."

About the Reinforcement of Fort Sumter by Stratagem.

We find the following paragraphs in the Charleston Mercury, of the 30th:—"THE BROOKLYN ROUND SOUTH. Capt. Dexter, of the schooner Louisiana, from Santos to Charleston, reports having seen on Cape Romain, at nine o'clock A. M. on Sunday, a large man-of-war armed with six guns, and under the command of Lieut. Sumner. The ship was seen in the distance, and stood southwest under all sail and steam. The distance from Cape Romain to Pensacola is about eleven hundred miles. The Brooklyn will probably be at Pensacola by Friday evening."

REINFORCING FORT SUMTER.

The following extract from the letter of a Southerner in New York is worthy of attention:

"I hope your consignment will keep a bright look out. Gen. Scott would delight in reinforcing Fort Sumter by stratagem. It might be done by intercepting a steamer vessel on its way to Charleston that had been regularly cleared for Charleston. They could then throw the cargo overboard, put the troops aboard, hoist the Palmetto flag off the bar, sail in and stop at Fort Sumter with stores and ammunition."

The seizure of the United States Mint at New Orleans, with $350,000, is reported.

Lines

Written on the death of SAMUEL, infant son of HENRY and SARAH GRAY.

A little sufferer, full of pain,
Lay on his cradle-bed;
And while weeping all in vain
Was standing at his head.

Kind friends in sympathy drew near,
And watched in mute despair;
Even while they watched, another sphere
Had claimed that spirit fair!

Upon the brow of purity white
A chilling glow was cast;
While in the eyes once filled with light,
A darkened gleam was fast.

The tiny hands were folded o'er
The cold and silent breast;
The lips were sealed, which oft before
A mother's kiss had prest.

Dark grew the home which once was bright;
Each heart was filled with gloom;
An angel-child, all robed in white,
Was coiled for the tomb.

For that little, trembling form
Immortal life was given;
And clasped within an angel's arm,
God called it home to live!

No more is heard that baby-voice;
But, ah! beyond the skies,
Where heavenly harps with praise rejoice,
Pain ne'er shall reach that gentle breast.

No more those eyes shall weep,
No more that mar the quiet rest,
Or break the dreamless sleep.

Thou mourning Father, do not grieve
About that lifeless form;
The Lord hath given—He doth leave,
But blessed be His name!

You're made, but by a just decree,
A great loss to deplore—
You're not gone ever parted be,
For He's not gone before.

Fond Mother, dry your weeping eyes,
And cease your mourning wail;
Hath God not said that in the skies
We shall meet again?

No longer grieve! It is not meet
That thou shouldst thus despair;
He cannot leave the Mercy-seat,
But you may meet him there!
